Everything started when a toucan came by, a young boy decided to give the toucan a shell. Soon, the boy's youngest brother named himself Idu. ( it means the first man on earth ). After that, Osanobua came down to earth. Osanobua is Idu's father. Then Osanobua made Idu have a hand full of sand then he created a woman to have kids and live a life. Since then, Idu and Eteghohi had many children. As the years went by, their kids spread out across the land. Thousands of years pass by until one day greedy Esmo, a pregnant woman took more food than she needed. Since then, everyone had to work very, very, very hard to plant/ make food.

Challenge: now write a summary explaining what you have found out about Osanobua as a character in the text. Remember to include evidence to support your opinions.

I feel like everyone needs an Osanobua in their life. He's there to make someone happy. He went down to earth to make Idu a wife to have kids and to live happily. He knew that Idu was lonely and we needed some help to stay happy and not lonely.

Extra challenge: draw one picture that could be used as a front cover for the story to show what the story is about.
