Whole School Homework

Last year, all the children created a piece of homework to commemorate the WW1 100th year. It was such an impressive display of children's work, where they produced their homework using a variety of different media. We had photographs of biscuits and cakes in the shape of poppies, sculptures and models of Flanders fields, drawings and poems of the Lone Soldier, to name but a few. We had so many visitors positively commenting on the children's work, that we decided to display it all year round - it was such a success!

This year we would like all children to produce a piece of homework to represent Remembrance Day on the 11th November. Children have free range on how they would like to create and present their homework, and all we ask is that it is brought into school on the 11th November, for all to share and then eventually be displayed in the main school corridor. We look forward to seeing the children's creations!
